

IN MEMORY OF THE BABIES LOST TO MISCARRIAGE, STILLBIRTH, INFANT DEATH & SIDS

There is a reality so sad, so distressing, that many cannot fathom it. And yet, for 15,000 Alberta parents whose babies are lost every year, it is an experience they will never forget. Having to say goodbye when never having had the opportunity to say hello haunts these parents each day. And yet, these babies brought so much joy to their families. Each of them had an expected arrival, a highly anticipated future.

Parents who have lost a baby do not need closure. They need an opportunity to honor and celebrate the babies they cannot hold, without judgment, amongst families who crave the same opportunity.

On Saturday, September 9, 2017, we will walk. Together, grieving mothers and fathers, friends and families, will join hands and hearts for all those little babies that did not have the opportunity to be brought home. There will be tears. There will be laughter. There will be hurt. There will be healing.

Life carries on; grief dwells in our hearts, but...

Love Endures.

Dear Friend:

The Calgary Walk to Remember invites you to be a sponsor of our event. We are two grieving mothers, brought together by fate and heartache. Each of us lost a son; both were stillborn, on different days, in different hospitals, on opposite ends of the city, in different years. And yet, through our boys, we managed to find each other: a soft glow in rather dark and somber woods.

Each year, in Alberta, more than 15,000 babies are lost to miscarriage, stillbirth, neo natal death and SIDS and too often, parents are left to grieve silently. A Walk to Remember is a day to openly remember and celebrate those tiny lives that touched our hearts. Calgary's first Walk to Remember took place in the fall of 2013. On Saturday, September 9, 2017, in Confederation Park, we will walk again, alongside grieving mothers, fathers, and families who crave opportunities to openly remember and honour their babies who died too soon.

We are asking your support in bringing the Calgary Walk to Remember to affected families again this year.
